

NAVY OARSMEN BEAT SYRACUSE BY 14 LENGTHS

Midshipmen Outclass Rivals in Varsity Race on Severn.

FRESHMEN RACE CLOSE

Annapolis Plebes Have to Row Hard to Gain Their Victory

Special Despatch to "The Sun"

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 3.—The Navy

Academy varsity and piebe crews added to the laurels which triumphs over Pennsylvania, Harvard and Princeton has brought them this season by defeating the varsity and freshman crews of Syracuse on the Susquehanna this afternoon.

The Syracuse varsity was outrowed badly, but the contest was a good one. The youngsters was one of the best yet seen on the river, and afforded the only real thrills of the afternoon. Alternating in the lead for a mile and seven-eighths with never a half length of advantage to either, the youngsters put up a remarkable struggle. In the last quarter of a mile the plebes rowed away from their overworked opponents and won by three lengths.

The navy varsity's time for the two-mile course was 12 minutes and 44 seconds, and that of the Syracuse varsity 11 minutes and 30 seconds. The Navy crew led at the finish by about fourteen lengths. The time of the Navy plebe was 13 minutes and 11 seconds, and that of the Syracuse freshmen 13 minutes and 23 seconds, both of the junior crew bettering the time of the Syracuse var-

There was considerable surprise over the poor showing of the visiting varsity. A powerful and plucky set of oarsmen they appeared to have mastered the fin points of rowing and had made a good impression. To-day they gave the midshipmen a very poor race and seemed to lack the ability to get their strength into the stroke.

Cubs Off Together.

The junior event was rowed first. Both crews got away at forty strokes and without advantage. At the half mile they were still well together, although both had dropped to thirty-six strokes. The midshipmen could not gain a decided advantage. In fact at times the visitors had a half length to the good. Time after time the midshipmen overcame them and forced their own bows ahead, but at the end of the race, until the last quarter of a mile was reached, did more than half a bow length separate them.

A quarter of a mile from the finish the Navy coxswain gave the word for a final effort, and the Syracuse youths tried to meet the effort. The Navy crew had power and condition and had something left, as it promptly demonstrated, but the Syracuseans had shot their bolt. They labored pluckily, but they could not meet the great effort of the midshipmen. The latter drove the boat ahead and crossed the finish line.

over three lengths to the good, and gained in the last quarter of a mile. With the youngsters having made such a good showing much was expected of the Syracuse variety. There was great surprise when the Navy seniors rowed right away from their rivals. Both crews started at forty strokes. The dropped to thirty-six.

Midshipmen Far Ahead.

The day was bright and beautiful, and the Severn, with its great number of small craft along the course and its towering banks, presented a fine spectacle. Twenty-four submarine chasers brought a large part of the crowd to the course and proved ideal vessels for such a purpose.

There was a light breeze directly against the oarsmen. The water was somewhat rougher than on the days of the previous races. Still conditions were not such as to handicap the oarsmen seriously.

Every one here is delighted over the work of the Navy crews and is forecasting the winning of the high-
